GOLF RANGE MAGAZINE* ANNOUNCES ANNUAL TOP 100 GOLF RANGES IN AMERICA FOR 2010

Georgetown, Conn.- Golf Range Magazine, the trade publication of the Golf Range Association of America (GRAA) has announced it's annual listing of the Top 100 Golf Ranges in America for 2010. The formal announcement was made at the GRAA "Solutions Summit" meeting held at the PGA Merchandise Show

Golf Range Magazine, celebrating its 18th year of publishing, is distributed to 12,000 owners, operators, general managers and teaching pros of public-access GOLF RANGES (e.g., golf learning centers, academies, indoor and domes) GOLF COURSES (18-hole with range) as well as SHORT COURSES (Executive, 9-hole, and Par-3).

"Year after year, the quality just keeps getting better. All of these facilities have distinguished themselves in the areas of teaching and training, operations and community outreach programs," said Steve di Costanzo, founder of Golf Range Magazine. "These facilities and their owner/operators play an important role in grass roots golf, golf club and equipment sales and offering family recreational programs."

This year's Top 100 list and additional information are available in the WINTER issue of Golf Range Magazine and on the GRAA's website at www.GolfRange.org with a 16-page PDF file.
