A LETTER FROM THE COMMISSIONER

What is the LPGA?

Great Athletes ✓
Global Interest ✓
Social Impact ✓
Growth and Expansion ✓
Bigger than just golf – you bet!

The LPGA is the sports property that checks all the boxes that many other leagues are trying to tackle.

2019 was another milestone year in the LPGA's history and global expansion. Tournament growth over the last 10 years is up more than 50 %, prize money is up over 90% and TV growth is up more than 250%.

Our athletes come from over 50 countries to compete on one of the LPGA Tours. We formed a Joint Venture with the Ladies European Tour to strengthen playing opportunities in Europe. LPGA is televised in over 170 countries around the world each week. And women's golf is now an Olympic sport.

Our players, business partners and fans understand that the LPGA is about so much more than golf. Our athletes are role models, leaders and influencers. And, they convene and inspire people well beyond sports. In fact, two out of every three LPGA Tour event in 2019 featured a Women's Leadership program to engage and connect women leaders from different backgrounds and interests.

We are also working hard to bring more girls and women to the game. Ten year ago, less than 20 % of junior golfers were girls. Today, more than 35% of junior golf is female, paving the way for the most female golfers the world has seen.

Difference makers, message-senders, global influencers! As we enter the LPGA's 70th year, we are more excited - and optimistic - about our potential to help increase opportunities for women – on and off the golf course. For those already part of the LPGA family, thank you for challenging us to be better and reach higher. And to those not yet invested in the LPGA, let's explore how we can work together to support your business objectives and diversity goals.

Editor's note: In November, Commissioner Whan extended his contract with the LPGA. In his words: "I'm not done!"

DRIVE ON™

In March, the LPGA launched it's new brand positioning: DRIVE ON. Drive On is clearly rooted in golf, but it's a bigger idea. It captures the power and potential in each of us and celebrates the hard work, focus, and tenacity that it takes to excel at ones' goals.

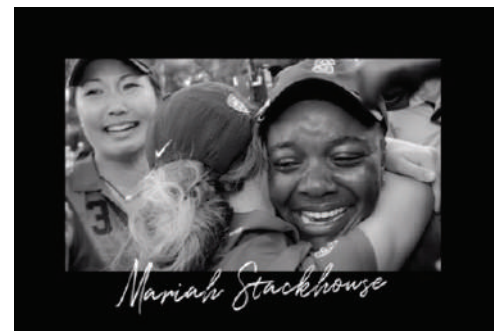

The LPGA has been "driving on" to create opportunities for women and girls for 70 years. The Drive On campaign was released with a film entitled – This is for every Girl. Since then two additional players were featured in the campaign: Lizette Salas and Mariah Stackhouse. Story turned for more in 2020.

PLAYER OF THE DECADE: INBEE PARK

Inbee Park received 53% of the fan vote and was selected as the LPGA Player of the Decade. Fans cast their votes during the two-week campaign in December resulting in 3.7 million impressions.

Park earned the No. 1 seed based on her staggering accomplishments on the LPGA Tour between 2010 and 2019. During that time, Park won 18 times, including six major championships, and won the Rolex Player of the Year, Rolex Annika Major Award, Vare Trophy and three-times topped the Money List.

Park also made history in 2016, becoming the youngest to qualify for the LPGA Tour Hall of Fame at the age of 27, and won the Olympic gold medal at the Summer games in Rio that same year.

The LPGA Teaching Division was founded in 1959 as an outgrowth of the LPGA Tour. The newly renamed LPGA Professionals boasts the largest membership of women golf professionals in the world.

LPGA Professionals are certified as golf instructors, coaches and business managers through a comprehensive curriculum designed to meet the changing needs of the golfing public. LPGA Professionals support the LPGA's various grassroots programs that were created to involve women and youth in golf as well as contribute to the overall growth of the sport. These include LPGA*USGA Girls Golf, LPGA Tour Junior Clinics, the LPGA Lesson Zone and LPGA Golf 101 programs.

In 2019, the LPGA Professionals taught more than 300 LPGA Golf 101 "Intro to Golf" programs by women for women with over 10,000 participants. Nearly 50% of LPGA-USGA Girls Golf sites are lead by LPGA Professionals.

WITH 1,800 PROFESSIONALS FROM 25 COUNTRIES, WE GIVE OVER 2 MILLION LESSONS TO 500,000+ STUDENTS ANNUALLY.

PROGRAMS FOR WOMEN & GIRLS

LPGA Tour hosted 19 Women's Leadership Programs at Tour events around the world....

... and we debuted a new Women's Empowerment Day program.

LPGA WOMEN'S NETWORK

The LPGA Women's Network is a community, designed to inspire women to enjoy more (and better) golf.

The Networks website offers a combination of expert advice, insights from golf's top, female thought-leaders and taste-makers, exclusive stories from LPGA Players, and more. You'll also find tips from LPGA Professionals to improve your golf skills.

In 2019, LPGA Women's Network reached 195,000 people across website, social and email.
